Declaration of Principles and County Platform

INTRODUCTION.
The Workingmen and all those who earnestly desire a more just and equitable distribution of the wealth and labor of the community, realizing the necessity of political independence and the need of a real union of the working classes, to carry into effect the principles of labor's revolution, the Socialistic Labor Party respectfully calls your attention to the following Declaration of Principles and County Platform. Should you be in favor of the labor movement, you will see in these pages the foundation of a noble and a mighty cause.

Eugene V. Debs

Declarator of Principles.
We hereby declare the condition of present evils and platform of the Socialistic Labor Party, adopting at the National Congress held at Chicago in the month of October, 1879.

1. The production of wealth, by which all wealth is now produced, and by which all wealth will ever be produced, is the labor of the whole people, whether employed in the fields, in the factories, in the workshops, or in the shops.

2. The just recognition of this fact shall be the first condition under which social and political progress can be realized.

3. The just recognition of this fact is the foundation of all stable government.

4. The just recognition of this fact is the foundation of all stable society.
